Passionate to serve you

More than 300 stock molds

At Alpha Packaging, we are always introducing new products and expanding our portfolio. We offer you a great choice of standard items; more than 300 European stock molds. All of our current stock bottles and jars are listed in this product catalogue.

From art to part

We can also offer you in-house design and engineering services. Our in-house engineering and tool-building departments work with clients in a six-step process to bring your ideas 'from art to part'.

Superior quality

We know that quality is your primary consideration. At Alpha Packaging quality is our top priority and we go the extra mile to make sure you will receive the quality packaging your product deserves. We use quality standards in our engineering and manufacturing processes, which is why we have implemented numerous checks and inspections. Naturally, we meet with the locally specified food safety requirements. Our plant in The Netherlands is BRC certified. Additional to our BRC certification, both our PET and rPET are certified to be used in the food industry. The rPET we are using is PCR based and certified.

Delivery according to your wishes

Our products are available with short lead times. Purchase of our products is in (full) pallets. Smaller quantities can be ordered through our network of distributors throughout Europe.

Seven plants in North-America, one in The Netherlands

Thanks to our plant in Etten-Leur, we can serve the European market. Our mother company in North America has seven manufacturing plants and one decorating division. The main office is located in St. Louis in the state of Missouri. In the US, we also work with HDPE, PVC and PP and our manufacturing process includes injection blow molding, extrusion blow molding, injection molding and reheat blow molding, besides injection stretch blow molding,

Together with our North-America teams, we are able to support you with cross continental needs. As we work with an exchangeable platform, we can offer you the same packaging for both Europe and North-America.

PET and rPET packaging that your product deserves

Alpha Packaging Europe manufactures state-of-the-art PET and rPET bottles and jars through a superior-quality process of injection stretch blow molding. We manufacture bottles and jars in a variety of styles and colours for the food and beverage, pharmaceutical, nutritional supplement, personal care, household and consumer chemical markets. Alpha Packaging Etten-Leur is BRC certified.

Sustainability

At Alpha Packaging, we work continuously on process improvement. We strive for zero waste production so that all plastic waste goes out the door either as a new product or as the raw material for a new product. We can also make products from 100% and 50% rPET (PCR), if this fits your demand.

Neck Know-How

As you browse this catalogue, you will see that every bottle and jar has a 'neck finish'. Most of the products we make have what is called a continuous-thread neck finish. These feature a threaded neck onto which metal or plastic closures are rotated until the closure fits firmly against the bottle's shoulder or neck bead. Depending on the neck finish of your bottle – usually expressed as two numbers separated by a hyphen – you can then choose from closure styles designed to match that neck finish. The first number represents the outer diameter of the neck opening in millimetres; the second number refers to the thread configuration and height of the neck. We make bottles with various neck finishes (see page 19).

Multiple colours

Alpha Packaging has a large variety of master batches. So, please contact us should you have special colour requirements, so we can customise to your needs.

The right packaging for your product

We use a targeted approach to the markets we serve, applying a variety of resources to develop appropriate packaging for your competitive environment. Every package represents the quality of your product and is recognisable for consumers so it can be easily found on the store shelf.

In this catalogue you will find a wide variety of solutions which might fit your needs. Or speak with your Alpha Sales Representative about creating the perfect custom bottle, jar or squeezer to meet with your needs.
